

Night Zoo

Tim Thompson
Jisoo Kim

Bimo went to the zoo at night.

He said hello to an elephant,
but the elephant was sleeping.

Hello!

He said hello to a giraffe
but the giraffe was sleeping too.

He said hello
to the monkeys
but the monkeys
were all sleeping.

A cartoon illustration set against a dark blue background. On the left, a large, brown tree trunk with a spiral carving on its side stands on a patch of green grass. Three red monkeys are perched on the tree's branches; one is at the top left, another in the middle, and a third is sitting on the ground at the base of the tree, leaning against the trunk. All three monkeys have their eyes closed, indicating they are sleeping. To the right of the tree, a black silhouette of a character with a white hat and a white bag is walking towards the left. A speech bubble above the character contains the word "Hello!".

Hello!

He said hello to the seals
but the seals were fast asleep.

Hello!

He said hello to the penguins
but they were all asleep too.

Hello!

Hello !

Then someone else said "Hello!".

“Who said that?” asked Bimo.

A night scene with a large yellow full moon in a dark blue sky. A tree with a brown trunk and green foliage is on the left. A yellow owl with large eyes is perched on a branch. A grey bat with light blue wings is hanging from the tree. In the foreground, a brown raccoon with a striped tail and a red fox are sitting on the ground. The text is written in white, serif font, with a white arrow pointing to the right.

It was an owl.
She introduced her
night friends.

“Why aren’t you sleeping?”
asked Bimo.

“Some animals sleep during the day.”
said the raccoon.

“Not me,” said Bimo.
“I’m going to bed.”

“Good night.”

